

Rainbow Clause

© 9.29.05

Terri Marie

Within a rainbow clause I stop and feel the light flicker
As time pours in and life rolls quicker

Where did I step into a New World warp
And ditch my old comfort zone corps

Did you notice the changing of the time guard?
Or did it catch you off guard too, snatch life in broken time shards

Will the rainbow full appear renew
Or come in their nuggets, one or two

I bathe in pure light, a colored math
As I stand in sounds, time's showered aftermath

Did color come before sound or after?
Did we first curse or roar with laughter?

If time isn't real what does it matter?
I'll take any time, more time, give me the latter

And come you rainbows, one or many
Come colors, my arching beloved light company